

INSPIRE A LEADER.

You meet them every day. Young people with potential. Show them how to use it.

Key Leader weekends take place across the United States —and around the world. In three action-packed days, high school students from diverse backgrounds come together to learn about themselves and each other. They build self-confidence through experiences from workshops to team building activities. They work with others to create a sense of community. And they learn what true leadership is all about — helping others succeed.

Change a life.

Here's how you can inspire a teen at Key Leader.

>> Spread the word.

Let promising young people in your school, school district and community know about Key Leader. Any high school student age 14 to 18 can take part and hone his or her leadership skills.

>> Nominate a student.

Focus on one or two students and nominate them for the program. Let the students—and their parents—know why you think they'd benefit from team-building, personal development and leadership training.

>> Find funding.

Could your school offer a scholarship to a student? Could a local service organization provide funding? Key Leader is a Kiwanis-family program. It's not necessary to be affiliated with Kiwanis to take part, although many Kiwanis clubs provide financial support for Key Leader students. Go to kiwanis.org and click "Find a club" to locate a Kiwanis club near you. The fee for a Key Leader weekend is available at key-leader.org.

>> Sign up.

Check out Key Leader's latest calendar of events at key-leader.org and help a student register for the program.

>> Come join us.

"My favorite part of the weekend is watching my students reach their full potential and blossom as leaders. Kiwanis Key Leader changes lives."

Carrie Bedwell, English teacher | Merrillville High School, Indiana
